5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

The hostility of the nations of Europe to the Congress of American Republics should be a matter for congratulation among Americans. It means that the one thing they fear above all others is the domination of the United States in the affairs of this continent. They understand that when a few years more shall have passed, in all the ordinary manufactures the United States will successfully compete with them; they realize that more and more of the young men of this Republic annually find their way into the southern countries; they see that American hands are liable to be the ones to develop the Southern lands, and that in the natural course of things American influence is to increase and European influences to decrease in the future. They still hold their old prestige on the sea but American roads are working South and already the change from Europe to our country is beginning. The Salt Lake Tribune says: Most of the Southern countries are silver countries, most of them, too, are tropical countries; exchange between those countries and our own ought to be of mutual benefit, and so those jealous ones beyond the sea look on and count the days, almost, when the prestige of the United States will dominate all others in Spanish America. Hence we can afford to let them sneer and scold. Our day is approaching and the center of the financial world will, in a few more years, gravitate to New York.

It is singular, says the Record-Union, that while all the press of the two great parties, Republican and Democratic, praise Mr. Blaine's speech before the American Congress, the mugwump papers tilt their noses and have no good words for the statesmanlike utterances of the Secretary of State. It is well this is so, since it will go far toward convincing the people that the mugwump press opposes often, if not always at this late day, not upon principle, but from prejudice; that it is sordid, and to that extent is incapable of doing justice to an enemy. He who cannot is the weakest of men.

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD must be a quick and close observer. He had not been twenty-four hours in California before he declared that they would be the wine-growers of the world. He did not hesitate also to declare that the great arid plains he crossed in Nevada would, when married to water, prove the most fruitful of lands, and that they strongly resembled plains in Arabia and India where irrigation had made apparent deserts blossom as gardens.

If nothing more should be accomplished than the "trip" the delegates to the Pan-American Congress are now taking through the United States, there would be compensation for the calling of the Convention. These foreign delegates are being shown the true greatness of the United States, its productive capacity and its industrial strength, and they must go back with a better opinion of the nation that will redound to our benefit.

THE United States steamer Dolphin, which a Democratic administration pronounced a failure, has just reached New York after a trip around the world, and a naval examining board has reported her to be in most excellent condition. Time sets all things even, but it cannot restore John Roach to life.

NORTH DAKOTA appears to be pretty solidly Republican. Out of a total vote of 39,000 the Republican candidate for Congress received a majority of 15,000, and the candidate for Governor a majority of 12,000.

LAST Thursday the Carson Mint coined the first silver dollars since 1885, when it was closed by Mr. Cleveland's Wall Street Administration.

Would Not Stand the Raise. The City Council of Los Angeles sat as a Board of Equalization and put a 20 per cent raise upon property in the business portion of the city, and now the owners of that property refuse to pay the increase and suits have been instituted to enjoin its collection.

CHURCH NOTICES.

TRINITY CHURCH—Morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock A. M. Sunday School, 12:30 P. M. Evening song, without sermon, at 7 P. M. Seats are free and all are cordially invited.
CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Services conducted by the pastor at 11 A. M. and 7:15 P. M. to-morrow. Subject of discourse at morning service: "The Great Race, and How to Run It." Evening: "How All Things Work Together for Good." Sunday-school at 12:15 P. M.
METHODIST CHURCH—Services in the M. E. Church to-morrow at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. In the morning Rev. G. W. DeLaMaty will preach, and in the evening the Pastor will preach. Subject: "Door Knocking." Service will commence at 7 o'clock sharp, and will close promptly on time.

Hog Disease is Spread.
Quite a sensation was created in Los Angeles recently by detectives who reported to the Police Commissioners that dead glandered horses were fed to hogs by one Ferrall, who has a contract with the city for their disposal. The hogs are then sold to the butchers.

Being Tried for Murder.
Richard Lee is now being tried in Los Angeles for the crime of murdering William Damon at Downey in 1871. After the crime Lee escaped to the Northwest and lived fifteen years under an assumed name.

Formidable Committee.
A Committee of One Hundred has been appointed at Tacoma to impress the Mayor and Council with the fact that they don't want, and will not have, saloons encroach on the residence quarter.

A Desperate Convict.
Charles Clark, a convict at Walla Walla, Washington, jumped on the brake beam of a car and tried to escape, but the guard put two balls in him and he fell to the ground, seriously but not dangerously wounded.

The Senate a Tie.
By the result of the count in Jefferson county, Mont., the Democrats lose on State Senator, making the upper branch of the Legislature a tie, but leaving them a majority on joint ballot of seven.

Unjust Taxation.
It is unjust to tax the stomach with burthens that it cannot bear. Many silly people thus tyrannize that faithful servant until it rebels and punishes them as they deserve. Dyspepsia is usually the child of gastronomic folly, but whether this or the natural associate of inherent feebleness from childhood, it is surely and pleasantly removable with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest and most highly sanctioned gastric tonic in existence. As a result of the tone imparted to the stomach, and the increased activity of its digestive and assimilative action, insured by the persistent use of this benign invigorant, general stamina is augmented, the nerves strengthened and tranquillized, and a tendency to insomnia, hypochondriasis, biliousness, chills and fever, rheumatism and kidney troubles are conquered by this admirable medicine.

A Hale Old Man.
A hale old man, Mr. Jas. Wilson of Allens Springs, Ill., who is over sixty years of age, says: "I have in my time tried a great many medicines, some of excellent quality; but never before did I find any that would so completely do all that is claimed for it as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is truly a wonderful medicine." For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

JOTTINGS.

Give your family a nice treat to-morrow, by taking them to the Riverside Hotel for dinner.

By buying your groceries of J. N. Wallace, you can be sure of full weight and the best quality.

C. A. Thurston's new depot is the place to go for all the leading magazines and San Francisco papers.

So long as C. J. Brookline continues in business you will not have to pay two prices for your paints, oils and while lead.

For a nice clam chowder, Boston baked beans and other good things go to J. J. Becker's Chicago Saloon to-morrow.

Sweet cider for mince pies, raisins, currants, citron and spices at Lead-better's; also prepared mince meat in packages.

The Arcade Hotel is the place to go for as fine a meal as you ever placed under your vest. Restaurant and bar, open day and night.

John Belz's increasing business is due to the fact that he employs only first-class barbers. Take a bath in one of his capacious tubs.

An extra fine lunch at George Becker's Granite Saloon to-morrow, which with a glass of Pacific or Frederickburg beer costs only a bit.

If good wood and good measure is wanted you should leave orders with J. M. Fulton, at the N. C. R. R., who for cash will have it delivered promptly.

English Railroad Business. There is no question of the popularity of the railroads in Great Britain, or at least in England, as the returns show that of all travelers in the kingdom only 2 1/2 per cent are noted in Ireland and 9 per cent in Scotland.

The total number of passengers reported is 742,090,000, and the receipts equal to about $118,500,000, which shows an average of only 16 cents a passenger. This remarkably low figure seems to be due to the enormous proportion of the third class passengers, over 85 per cent of the whole. The returns here summed up are exclusive of season-ticket business.

Its Excellent Qualities. Commend to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. It is pleasing to the eye, and to the taste and by gently acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

San Francisco Meat Market. Following are the rates for whole carcasses from slaughterers to dealers:

BEEF—First quality, 66¢/cwt; second quality, 64¢/cwt; third quality, 62¢/cwt. PORK—Live hogs, on foot, medium, 50¢/cwt; heavy, 48¢/cwt; soft, 46¢/cwt; dressed hogs, 75¢/cwt.

Parents should be careful that their children do not contract colds during the fall and early winter months. Such colds weaken the lungs and air passages, making the child much more likely to contract other colds during the winter.

It is this succession of colds that causes catarrh and bronchitis or paves the way for consumption. Should a child be contracted loss no time but cure it as quickly as possible. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold in a few days and leave the child's respiratory organs strong and healthy. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

Electric Bitters. This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise. A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. Will drive malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all malarial fevers. For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters. Entire satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Price, 50 cents, and $1 per bottle at Hodgkinson's drug store.

Loss of Labor. The flume of the Golden Gate river mine, two miles above Oroville, Cal., on the main river, was unable to carry the increase of water which fell during the late storm, and the waste-way of the dam had to be opened, letting part of the water into the claim, undoing the work of three weeks' pumping. The claim was dry and mining had commenced.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve. The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, chapped hands, chilblains, and skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Hodgkinson & Co., druggists.

Desperate Thieves. Word comes from Fort Thomas, A. T., near the scene of the Paymaster Wham robbery, that stock is being shot or driven off by the enemies of the citizens of Graham county, who are at Tucson as witnesses for the Government in the Wham case. There is a prospect that somebody will be hurt, for the citizens are organizing to stop this work.

The Best There Is. A new typewriter has been invented by the party who invented half of the Remington and all of the Caligraph. It has no ribbon, no wooden bars, but is all steel, prints true and without any blur. It costs an even hundred dollars, and is worth two of any other machine. It prints better, wears longer, is easier to learn and works faster, besides other recommendations. C. A. Bragg, Agent.

Is Consumption incurable? Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "We down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewert, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, I would have died of lung troubles, was given up by doctors, am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Hodgkinson's drug store.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Fall Colors and Combinations—Long Cloaks and Capes—Ways of Making.

A peculiar rust color called Tour Eiffel, in honor of the Eiffel Tower, is a prominent shade in Fall importations, and is expected to displace the terra cottas, yellowish browns and other kindred hues in vogue. It does not, however, conflict with greyish blues, old tapestry greens, yellowish reds, dahlia and other blendings, which, produced in wool or silk, form the plain material that serves as an offset to combination fronts, borders panels, in great variety of design and richness. Comparatively few persons can afford to purchase these elegant silks, but the fine wools show beautiful combinations, not only in tapestry patterns of answering fabric, but in higher tones of silk, velvet, velours, and even plush, the latter, however, being most frequently placed as a border that serves the purpose of a frame to some pictorial display. Less expensive wools are adorned with floral and other patterns done in mohair, and by its contrasting shine very pretty results are obtained at moderate expense.

VELVET FLOWERS. Leaves and feathery grasses woven in black on the new colored ground-works, are handsomest of all and vary perpetually from bold designs to small buds and sprays. Empire wreaths appear loosely by flying ribbons: some patterns are all over or again leave room for the fine shimmer of silken threads thrown up to the surface in wools, or in case of armure or faille silks, for an exhibition of the rich body of the goods, since new failles especially are distinctly handsome in thick reps that are closely rivalled, however, by the softer attractions of armures. Silks of all descriptions have received a great impetus from the Exposition: manufacturers have endeavored to outvie each other and, judging from these first importations of Lord & Taylor, the like has never before been witnessed.

SHOULDER CAPES. Of cloths are very noticeable in their department of street garments and a sure sign that they will be much worn. Those of colored cloth in successive rows take the lead and as a new departure, may be mentioned some having long front ends. In longer garments, the Ursuline cloak, so called because a close imitation of that order of nuns, shows even the conventional hood and girdle, while nun-like brown cloth perfects the resemblance. Very worldly adornments of borders and perpendicular stripes appear at times however: this being in harmony with the bordered dress patterns; some even are in tapestry all over patterns, and later on it is not improbable that rich silks with or without kindred ornamentations will belie the saintly origin of the Ursuline. In the making of

NEW DRESSES. There is considerable conflict of thought, and, if from the same freedom should arise similar to that which reigns at present, the benefit will be proportionate. It is conceded that faithful portrayals of Marguerite's costume in "Faust," are being already prepared in cloth, and, once introduced, they may extend to higher class material. Fifteenth century dresses show a skirt of one material slightly draped above another, while strong efforts are made for a revival of the genuine empire dresses with very short waists. A revival of the old-time coral strand about the neck and the beautifully artistic empire coiffure with golden fillet about the head, shows a reverting to classic outlines and the long ago. It is certain that ladies are tiring of a perpetual diretoire with inherently stiff outlines, and thus the signs of the times point to soft falling drapery. But with sudden caprice, ideas most in favor may be abandoned and the next month will be a critical time in the world of dress.

PERSONAL. J. C. Calhoun, a former conductor on the V. & T. railroad, arrived this morning from San Francisco.

W. S. Woods, the San Francisco attorney, arrived from below this morning on his way to Carson City.

Mrs. B. C. Shearer and mother-in-law left this morning for California, Mrs. Shearer expecting to be gone a week or two.

Wells Drury and wife arrived from San Francisco this morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. Drury's brother, the late Simeon Ira Bishop.

General Irish and daughter, Professor King, Mrs. W. P. McLaughlin and son Will, besides many others who were unable to go yesterday, went to Carson to-day.

Mrs. Dr. Dawson will leave this evening for San Francisco to meet the orphaned children of the late Mrs. Asa Dawson, who will arrive there to-morrow from Seattle.

Cannot Stop. Quite a number of citizens of Reno, who learned of Senator Stanford's proposed visit to Ogden, telegraphed an invitation to Mr. Towne for the Senator to stop and meet the citizens at the Opera House. They received the following answer:

Senator Stanford appreciates the kindly consideration of the citizens of Reno manifested by extending such a cordial invitation to attend a reception there at the Opera House in his honor on his way to Ogden. He especially desires me to express his thanks for the invitation with regrets at his inability to accept, owing to engagements at Ogden Monday morning.

A. N. Towne.

A Double Tragedy. The Salt Lake Tribune contains the particulars of the probable murder in that city of Mrs. Robert Branton by her husband and his subsequent suicide. By the evidence elicited at the Coroner's Jury it seems that Mrs. Branton was about to apply for a divorce and this is the supposed cause of the dual tragedy.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence. The present advance in iron and steel exceeds that of 1884.

Boston is said to hold $20,000,000 of the sugar trust certificates. Attention is called to the 50-cent ad. of a girl wanted to do upstairs work.

Railroad property in Tennessee is valued at $39,285,660, being $14,978 a mile. More than 750,000 people used the public baths in Boston the past season.

Grape picking is being pushed in the Sonoma Valley, Cal., in apprehension of rain.

Wild turkeys are reported plentiful in the mountain ranges southeast of Tucson.

A very fair specimen of "nearly ripe" cotton is shown at the Bishop Creek Fair.

Mollie Beamer, a courtesan, killed herself at Healdsburg, Cal., Wednesday night.

Some large loans were made in New York last week at the prevailing high rates for money.

Chemists' reports in Minnesota are published showing serious adulteration of food products.

Wm. H. Hopkins, City Marshal of Albuquerque, N. M., and a very popular man, is dead.

The Lassen Advocate contains a condensed, but very interesting, account of the Reno Fair.

Out of their immense stock the proprietors of the White House are able to give all their patrons a perfect fit.

The explosion of a coal oil stove at Ontario destroyed the life of Mrs. J. A. Fays and dangerously burned her husband.

Geo. Burt was tangled in a rope with which he had lassoed a cow, near Los Gatos, Cal., last Friday, and fatally crushed.

Five or six carloads of furniture for the new C. P. depot arrived this morning, which begins to look like business.

The remains of the bootblack fatally injured by the cars east of Wadsworth a short time since were shipped East this morning.

The Lompoc (Cal.) Record says the potato crop is good in that part of the country, and several thousand sacks will be shipped.

Twelve cars of beef cattle, shipped at Winnemucca by Colonel Hardin, consigned to Poley, Heilbron & Co., San Francisco, passed through here last evening.

G. W. Merchen has presented Mrs. Churchill, his recently married daughter, with a couple of South Side building lots recently purchased from Judge Hayden.

Sheriff McComb of Lander county passed through Reno this morning on his way to the State Prison with Lewis Smith, sentenced for a year and a half for horsestealing.

At Elko last Thursday Judge Bigelow sentenced James Robinson to ten months in the State Prison for selling whisky to Indians—the proper medicine for that kind of vermin. He was brought in last evening by Sheriff Bernard, and taken to Carson this morning.

A REMARKABLE OCCURRENCE. A Warm Spring Turns Cold and Its Flow Increases.

The Winnemucca Silver State says: The Paradise Valley Mining Company's mill dam is built on Martin creek in a narrow gorge between two precipitous bluffs. Just above the dam there was a hot spring, the waters of which kept the temperature of the water in the reservoir above the freezing point in the coldest weather. This summer, in consequence of the drought, Martin creek was dry and the warm spring turned cold and its flow of water doubled in volume, furnishing sufficient to supply the mill. Whether the spring will continue cool when the water begins to raise in the stream above it again remains to be seen.

IT WAS LONG ENOUGH. Colonel—Well, what's the matter now? Private—I've got liver trouble and dyspepsia, and ought to get leave for thirty days. Colonel—If you give you ten, and if you take Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla that will be long enough.

Fred H. Blocker, of 19 Montgomery street, San Francisco, writes: I have spent many a dollar for medicines, but the only thing that ever stopped my liver trouble and dyspepsia, was Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Gustav Solomon, of 222 Valencia street, San Francisco, writes that it has entirely freed him of his indigestion and sick headaches.

Change For the Better.

Change is one of the irresistible and fortunately the change is almost invariably for the better. As an instance of this, St. Patrick's pills are fast taking the place of the old harsh and violent cathartics, because they are milder and produce a pleasant effect. Besides they are much more beneficial in removing morbid matter from the system and preventing ague and other malarious diseases. As cathartics and liver pills they are always perfect. JOHN SMITH, CLERK.

Once there was a man. He was a clerk in a bank at forty-five dollars a month. His name was John Smith. At a directors' meeting one day after the discounts had been passed upon and the portly directors were laboriously getting up to go, the president, who had the ablest and most expansive vest of any of them, stopped them.

"By the way," he remarked, "I have a note from John Smith, one of our young men, you know—some of you know him—but I guess I must have lost it. Any how, he wants his salary raised. Says the business of the bank is four times what it used to be and his work has increased accordingly. Says with increase in the amount of money handled comes increase in the strain on his integrity. Seems to think he ought to be paid for not robbing us. Beside, he says he can scarcely keep his family on his salary. I suppose I can answer it without calling another board meeting," he concluded, facetiously.

"Tell him he oughtn't to have such a big family," suggested one.

"Quote the law against embezzlement to him," said another, and so on, as they buttoned their overcoats and went out about their business.

By and by John Smith got a note like this, signed by the president and written on the note paper of the bank, bearing the imposing array of directors' names in neat engraving at the head of it:

"MR. JOHN SMITH—Dear Sir: In answer to yours of even date, I am instructed by the board of directors to say that they can not agree with your view of the case. It is true that your work has largely increased with the growth of the bank under its present successful management. But it is no more than you are able to do, and no more than we can find others to do for the salary we now pay you. The other phase of the matter you present, that we should pay you for the moral wear and tear incident to resisting temptation to steal, as well as for the physical and mental work you do, has no weight. Our relations, however pleasant personally, are purely a business affair on both sides. We pay you so much money for so much work. Your honesty is presumed. If you should prove dishonest we would discharge you, and the law would send you to prison.

"With your family affairs we have nothing to do, but I may suggest to you that careful economy in small household expenditures will result in an annual saving which will, perhaps, surprise you. Without referring especially to you—for I never endeavored to pry into your private affairs, nor inquired how you lived—I may say that, in my opinion, the prevailing tendency of young people nowadays is to live too high, instead of being careful to lay up something for a rainy day.

"Yours truly, etc."

The directors hadn't been in session long the next day when John Smith opened the door, handed in a slip of paper, and walked back to his desk. There was silence for a minute, then a murmur, then the clerks outside heard a clatter of moving chairs in the board-room, and then the door opened and two or three voices called "Smith!"

"In a moment," answered Smith, cheerfully, laying a blotter between the leaves of the book he had been writing in, and carefully tucking the pen behind his ear, as though he were making his toilet.

"What do you mean by this?" they demanded when he appeared in the directors' room. "Telling us there is only $9,647.50 of available cash, and suggesting that we get some for the counter."

"It's so," responded Smith, "and I thought you ought to know it before the money is all checked out. The bank oughtn't to have to close its doors in the middle of the day."

"But according to your statement of yesterday and your showing of to-day's business there ought to be $200,000. Where is the quarter of a million we were just discussing an investment for?"

"I've invested it myself," responded Smith, coolly, "in a safe place—$250,000 of it. The other twenty cents I took for street-car money. I took a quarter of a million away with me last evening."

"You what?"

"I stole it, in plain English. When I got this response to my note to the president I—really I must renew my suggestion about the advisability of getting some cash on the counter. You are very short, and you ought to attend to it at once."

Two of the directors drew their checks on other banks and sent them out, although the signatures were very shaky; and then, quite at his ease, Mr. Smith leaned up against the carved mantel-piece, read the president's note refusing his request for an increase and went on:

"When I got this note it set me to thinking whether, as our relations were a purely business affair, I couldn't do better than go on as I had been doing. There were $250,000 in convenient shape that I could get my hands on. I might have skipped to Canada with it, but I don't like the climate. I took the money away with me and concealed it—pausing for a moment and smiling down in their eager faces, "I place known only to myself. I shall give myself up, and as our relations, in the language of the president, have been 'personally pleasant,' I will save you the expense of a trial by pleading guilty. The maximum sentence for my offense, under the laws of the State, is ten years in the penitentiary. With the commutation for good behavior, it will be about eight and a half years. It will be dull, but I shall not be idle. I have never had leisure to cultivate the graces of the mind. I have a taste for music. I will cultivate it. I will learn a modern language or two. I am thirty-one years old now. When I have served my term and am clear of the law, I will come out of prison thirty-nine years old, with a cultivated mind and a comfortable fortune of $250,000 awaiting me. I can afford to go away, to travel in foreign countries and enjoy life. Of course

MY NEIGHBORS' CATS.

I have a cat—a Thomas cat—Likeness has Neighbor Briggs. And next to him is Deacon Crump. He's one, and so has Triggs. Neighbors innumerable has This feline corps légion. And I do implore them all Except my Thomas cat.

The midnight purring is of yowls That joggle my repose, Vituperative epithets My verbal port of errors. I conjure schemes to perse 'twixt My sorely-uttered cats, And vow there is no nuisance like My neighbors' Thomas cats.

And when I come down each day to take My maternal meal I hear my Tommy's tuncful purr And stroke his back of seal. He opens his eyes, rears up his spine To meet my tender pats, And quite assures me he's unlike All other Thomas cats.

Last night the caterwauling smote My ear as I was roused, I shied the quills of wrathfully The window-sash I raised. Down on the porch below I hurled A giant base-ball bat, And near it in the morning found My slaughtered Thomas-cat.

If we'd reform the neighborhood at home we should begin: A blindness to our own offense. Cures our pigs, our fine pets. Our dogs, our cats, our fine pets. Are very like our neighbors' dogs, And pigs and "kiddies" and cats. —Wade Whipple, in Richmond Dispatch.

It will be dull, but I shall not be idle. I have never had leisure to cultivate the graces of the mind. I have a taste for music. I will cultivate it. I will learn a modern language or two. I am thirty-one years old now. When I have served my term and am clear of the law, I will come out of prison thirty-nine years old, with a cultivated mind and a comfortable fortune of $250,000 awaiting me. I can afford to go away, to travel in foreign countries and enjoy life. Of course

I lose the interest on my $250,000 while I am in prison, but if I were to live on air and go naked and save all my salary, I wouldn't have one-fifth as much at the age of thirty-nine. On the whole, I think I have made a good speculation. Don't you?

The directors of the directors were not very coherent just at this moment. They made various appeals to him, on the confidence they had had in him, on the good name he bore, on the dishonor he would incur, etc., but he responded that all these had not helped him to an increase in salary, and repeatedly quoted the language of the president's note to him, that "their relations were purely a business affair on both sides." Finally he said:

"Our relations have been personally pleasant, and I have no unrequitable desire to spend the next eight and a half years in jail. I will make you a proposition. If you will sign a bond not to prosecute me, and publish in the daily papers a set of resolutions setting forth that whereas your valued and trusted employe, John Smith, by the receipt of a legacy from a deceased relative, has been relieved of the necessity of further service, that you part with him with extreme regret, etc.—if you do this, I will bring back $125,000 and content myself with the other $125,000. The interest will make up a good part of the loss to me."

It was hard to give up $125,000 and hitch it to a set of resolutions complimenting the thief, but it was a choice between getting half the loaf or nothing. Was the satisfaction of sending him to prison for eight and a half years worth $125,000 a year to them? They figured on it and agreed that it wasn't. They accepted his proposition, drew up the bond and signed it.

"You can get the resolutions in shape by to-morrow," he said, "and have them ready when I bring the money. It would scarcely be delicate for me to be present when they are adopted."

"Couldn't you bring it to-day, Mr. Smith?" asked the president, in a perspiration.

"No, I haven't time to go after it. The work at my desk always keeps me busy until the hour for closing the bank. You will have to trust me till to-morrow, and as by signing this bond you have committed yourselves to the compounding of a felony, I guess I can trust you—even as a purely business affair."

They were all on hand early next day. Smith, the cashier, said (not without some surprise at hearing the president inquire for him as "Mr. Smith"), had gone out to get his lunch. He was asked for half a dozen times before he came. Every few minutes the door of the directors' room would open, a perspiring face would be thrust out and Smith would be inquired for. Then the face would be withdrawn and the directors would fall to discussing whether, since Smith hadn't taken their bond and given them the up, at the stroke of twelve the door opened, and Smith walked in. He picked up the resolutions, read them with approval, and with a "Thank you, gentlemen; this is handsome," he handed a package to the president, saying:

"Here's your money."

Then he took his former stand by the mantel-piece, and watched their eager faces while they bent over to count it. A hundred crisp $1,000 bills—then $25,000, some of it in smaller denominations—$25,000 more yet—and then, to their amazement, another 100 $1,000 bills.

"Why, it's all here—you've brought it all back!"

"I never meant to steal it," said Mr. Smith, coolly. "I made you believe I did merely to convince you that you were conducting your bank on the wrong principle, in keeping a man on a starvation salary with a fortune within his grasp. I wanted to make you understand that there is something more in the relations between a bank and its trusted employes than cold business. I suppose you have no further use for me. I am ready to turn over my books as soon as you name my successor. He will find them all right. Good-day."

He walked back to his desk. Pretty soon they called him again, and the president made a little speech. He said the lesson had been an unpleasant one, but they were disposed to take it in the spirit in which it was given. Perhaps he was right. They had no desire to punish him, but—here he hesitated and stammered a little—they were also unwilling that it should be said that they had no desire to keep a financier of his capacity in the humble place in which he had hitherto been employed. Therefore, one of their number, Mr. Wilkins, who was the agent of an insurance company, at a salary of four thousand dollars a year, had decided to resign that position, and would have Mr. Smith appointed his successor. Meanwhile, Mr. Smith could take a vacation of two weeks.—Pittsburgh Times.

HERE'S A LITTLE LIST.

Things That Every Honest Man Desires

From the man who knows it all.

From the slattern and severely clean.

From tailor-made gentlemen everywhere.

From all whom dogs and children dislike.

From "clams" that like muddy water best.

From the bar-room actor who "supported Forest."

From all who "say" their prayers, but never "pray."

From press agents, society actresses and would-be stars.

From the creatures that write nasty books or read them.

From dealers in the "antique" who make their own wares.

From dealers in all kinds who call dishonest "business."

From public libraries that never buy a book worth preserving.

From the three P's—plumbers, politicians and neighbors' pianos.

From policemen who can not see because they are paid for not seeing.

From the man who speaks of another's alleged vices with tears in his eyes.

From prima donnas who can not sing and servant-girls who think they can.

From people who rush to the sea-side in summer, but never take a bath at home.

From mothers who turn their children into the street to "keep the house tidy."

From cashiers who affect the style of millionaires and go to Canada or to jail.

From wives who think that husbands were only made to work that they may spend.

From the "dudes" who hang around stage doors and from ballet girls off the stage.

From shop girls who judge lady customers by their clothes and treat them accordingly.

From "blemishes" upon manhood who give "well" dinners to "blots" upon womanhood.

From authors who pay for the publication of their books and give the publishers the profits.

From Americans who have never seen their own country, but go every summer to "Europe."

California's Fir Trees.

They have big fir trees in California as well as redwoods, if the following item going the rounds of the press can be given credence: A citizen of Alma, Cal., has finished working up a fir tree which grew on his place. He received $12 for the bark; built a frame house 14x20 feet, 8 feet high, with a kitchen 8 feet wide and 30 feet long; with a bedroom 14x20 feet; made 800 fence rails 10 feet long; made 884 railroad ties, 500 boards 6 inches wide and 3 feet long, and 15 cords of wood. All this from one tree, and a part of the tree is left.
